FREE CARE AND COACHING

Myanmar Mission

Turin - Kawthaung

Where a hand is needed,
we give our heart.

Who we are

We are doctors and professionals.

We are a group of people who want to advocate the right to free medical care of everyone, starting with children.

We are a team that relies exclusively on donations from volunteers and supporters.

We are men and women who believe in peace.

What we do

MedAcross is a non-profit association, an Italian project created for the purpose of:

providing free medical care to people in developing countries, with a particular focus on little children and teenagers

training medical and paramedical staff on site in order to create independent health facilities and generate jobs for the local population supporting humanitarian interventions, also by cooperating with local associations already at work and similar to ours

“ If a human being is suffering because he is ill, I feel it is my duty to help him. It’s something that comes natural. I am a doctor, I know how and so I do. ”

GABRIELLA BUONO - MedAcross Doctor

Our History

This is a story of friendship.

We are a group from Turin (Italy). One night we gathered around a table for dinner to discuss about a serious emergency in Somalia and decided to become involved and go there.

In 2012, in collaboration with other volunteers, we started the project for the construction of a hospital in Hargeisa (Somaliland) and within three years, we were able to treat over 50 thousand children for free. In 2015, the facility was handed over to local authorities and it continues to provide assistance to locals to this day.

Our next project in Myanmar is the consequence of another great friendship, the one between Turin and Burma, now Myanmar. A friendship that has deep roots that date back to the 1800s and that has become stronger in recent years thanks to the commitment of Italian MP Piero Fassino, who was appointed EU Special Envoy for Myanmar from 2007 to 2011.

It is precisely thanks to the fruitful relationship between Turin and Yangon that in 2013, the city of Turin grants honorary citizenship to Nobel Prize winner Aung San Suu Kyi and notary Andrea Ganelli is appointed Honorary Consul General of the Union of Myanmar, with headquarters in Turin.

This is followed by the establishment of prestigious partnerships that once again strengthen the historic, cultural and economic ties between the two countries and sealed by the decision of Yangon and Turin to become sister cities, the only city in Europe to enjoy this special bond.

“ The principle is very simple: to devote part of your time and skills to help people who were less fortunate in life than you were ”

Myanmar mission

Introduction

MedAcross is currently involved in a medical and humanitarian project in Myanmar (former Burma).

In this region, health problems are particularly severe because of the strong presence of Internally Displaced Persons (IDP) living in precarious conditions.

A rather poor area plagued by sexual exploitation of boys and girls who are brought to the lands of the border with Thailand with the promise of finding work and instead often have to face a nightmare.

The MedAcross association came to know of this serious emergency thanks to reports from Oblate Thomas Haake, who has spent a lifetime working on humanitarian missions around the world and almost 20 years in Myanmar.

Myanmar mission

Step I - Medical-humanitarian assistance

To date, MedAcross has been operating in Myanmar in support of the humanitarian and healthcare project developed by the Sisters of our Lady of the Missions in the town of Kawthaung and in the surrounding rural areas that focuses specifically on providing:

- assistance to kids and teenagers who are victims of human trafficking and sexual exploitation by giving them jobs in a textile factory in order to increase their chances of finding work and being independent
- basic health services for IDPs and needy people, for whom the most common diseases are HIV, tuberculosis and malaria
- educational services for street children in the city
- mobile clinics set-up in rural villages that bring free medical care to over 300 people who have no access to any form of healthcare service

In Kawthaung, with the important support of Fondazione Specchio dei Tempi, MedAcross is financing the construction of a Basic Health Clinic with an HIV Center to provide free health care and professional training to local medical staff.

MedAcross will also purchase a vehicle that will allow to significantly increase the number of villages currently reached through the mobile clinic program, so that more than 1,000 people can be visited monthly by our medical staff.

Step II – Hospital

MedAcross is also involved in the design of a hospital that will be built in 2017/2018 probably around the port area of Kawthaung, far from the city center and the nearest hospital, where there is a huge slum populated by destitute people and IDPs who daily cross the border and enter into Thailand as day laborers.

The new clinic will offer outpatient visits and will include brief observation wards and day hospitals, a lab for analysis, a diagnostic unit and an internal pharmacy for patients to pick-up prescribed medication.

The clinic will also offer free medical care and assistance to people who have no access to healthcare services because of the relatively high costs that they would face to obtain healthcare, purchase medication and for transportation to reach the only hospital in the city.

Italy-Myanmar

300 years of friendship

Relations between Italy and Myanmar have solid roots that are embedded in the country's history. From the religious Barnabites who in the 18th century had worked in Myanmar, to those of the Congregation of the Oblates of the Virgin Mary who left at the beginning of the 19th century from Piedmont (Italy).

Among the Italians who served in the country we ought to mention Father Paolo Matteo Abbona, who the Burmese scholar Vivian Ba called "the greatest and most Burmanised of the Oblates of Turin".

As a missionary, Father Abbona built schools, hospitals and churches. He also played an important role in delicate diplomatic missions (he spoke seven languages) between the British and the Burmese Court. Appointed in 1856 as Plenipotentiary of the King of Sardinia, he earned the esteem of the British Prime Minister, Lord Palmerston, and the collaboration of Camillo Benso, Count of Cavour. As an economist, he drafted the Treaty of Commerce and Friendship between the Kingdom of Italy and the Burmese Empire.

These stories show that the bond between Italy and Myanmar dates very far back, and in more recent times, there have been many opportunities for collaboration and exchange between the two countries.

In 2006, a Conference was organized in Turin to commemorate the adventure of Father Abbona in the Burmese land, to celebrate the bicentenary of his birth.

From 2007 to 2011, MP Piero Fassino served as the European Union's Special Envoy for Myanmar.

In 2013, Nobel prize winner Aung San Suu Kyi was granted honorary citizenship in the city of Turin and notary Andrea Ganelli was appointed Consul General of the Union of Myanmar, headquartered in Turin. Followed by the visit of Thein Sein, President of Myanmar Union in 2014 and the appointment of Pier Giorgio Aliberti, born in Cuneo, as Italian Ambassador in Yangon

The recent establishment of the Italy-Myanmar Business Council and the Italy-Myanmar Chamber of Commerce strengthen the cultural and economic ties between the two countries.

“ My personal bond with Burma comes from far: the adventure of Father Paolo Abbona was ever present during my childhood, much like a fairy tale. Today I want to re-experience the enthusiasm of that great man from Piedmont who so dearly loved the people of Burma,”
